

a
(a toilet plunger received and supported in the other of said receptacles[.]; and said holder handle extending above the holder a distance greater than the upwardly projecting toilet brush and toilet plunger handles.

[Please add the following new claims 21 and 22.

~~19-21~~ 21. A toilet accessory kit, comprising:
a holder having opposite ends defining receptacles;
a divider extending across the holder and separating the receptacles from one another;
a handle attached to the divider for carrying the holder;
a toilet brush received and supported in one of said receptacles;
a toilet plunger received and supported in the other of said receptacles; and said receptacle for said brush is a cup-shaped member in said one end of said holder.

a 22. 22. A toilet accessory kit, comprising:
a holder having opposite ends defining receptacles;
a divider extending across the holder and separating the receptacles from one another, said divider and said handle being formed as one piece, separate from the base member, and then secured to the base member to form the holder;
a handle attached to the divider for carrying the holder;
a toilet brush received and supported in one of said receptacles; [and]
a toilet plunger received and supported in the other of said receptacles; and the receptacle for the brush comprising a cup-shaped member in said one end of said holder.]

[IN THE DRAWINGS:

A separate letter to the Drawing Review Branch is attached, with a copy of figure one shown in red-ink, the addition of reference character "26A".